

... Boundary

A total of 165 children live in the two apartment complexes, Dr. Hull said. Transferring them to the Wright School would eliminate the need for temporary facilities at Victor School and put to use classrooms at Wright School which otherwise would be empty.

Several trustees indicated they favored some form of an alternate plan presented by Ted Kyte of 20707 Anza Ave. Kyte suggested that children kindergarten through the fourth grade stay at Victor School. Older children would be transferred to Wright School.

DR. HULL said such a plan would be difficult to administer because some families would be split between two elementary schools.

His original recommendation, Dr. Hull said, is the "most logical solution."

Trustees will take up the boundary issue again at their March 20 session.

"My first reaction," Lyman said, "was 'to heck with them'—but those library bonds are more important."

And Mayor Albert Ison said the council did not have to be "prodded" by the "rantings and ravings" of the school board.

TRUSTEE BERT M. Lynn Monday accused the council of pulling "a sneaky pete" on the school board through consolidation of the school and special city elections.

Lynn said the salary measure was designed so councilmen could "throw in with lobbyists" before the State Legislature. "Should this ever pass," he said, "we will never have a chance to vote on it again."

By tying salaries of Torrance councilmen to the rate for councilmen in general law cities, Lynn said, salaries would be set by the State Legislature.

VOTERS rejected similar proposals to hike salaries for councilmen in April, 1966, by a 2-to-1 margin.

"When they ran for election," Lynn said, "not one of them had the guts to take a stand (on the salary issue)."

"I challenge the right of the city council to put this on the ballot," he continued. "We considered the library bond educational, but I don't see anything educational about robbing the coffers of this city."

On Lynn's motion, the school board voted unanimously Monday to send a "strongly worded" resolution to the council, asking that the salary proposal be removed from the ballot.

Exam for Fire Chief Now Closer

Initial steps toward naming a permanent successor to retiring Fire Chief J. J. Benner were taken last night with the approval of an amendment to the city's existing civil service laws.

The amendment will permit the City Council, on the recommendation of the Civil Service Commission, to declare an examination for fire chief to be either an open or a promotional examination.

Under current ordinances, an examination for fire chief would be open to men in the first three ranks below that of chief in any California fire department serving a population of 80,000 or more.

That ordinance is expected to be repealed when the amendment approved last night becomes law. After that, machinery will be set in motion to conduct the examination for fire chief.

IN OTHER action last night, the council:

- Approved the reconstruction of 242nd Street between Hawthorne Boulevard and Pacific Coast Highway at an estimated cost of $18,000.

- Set April 27 for the council's special charter Review Committee to conduct a public hearing in an effort to identify areas of the city charter which should be studied by a special citizens committee.

- Authorized appraiser Robert Flavell to conduct an appraisal of Mobile Oil Co. property which is needed for the extension of Madrona Avenue and Del Amo Boulevard.

Torrance Attorney Will File

Attorney Boris S. Woolley long active in Torrance and South Bay Republican and civic affairs, announced this morning that he would be a candidate for election to the 46th Assembly District seat left vacant by the death last month of Charles E. Chapel.

Woolley joins Chapel's widow, Dorothy; Manhattan Beach mayor Robert G. Beverly; Redondo Beach councilman J. O. Lee Solomon; and William A. Ross of Manhattan Beach as announced candidates for the office at an April 11 primary.

A RESIDENT of Palos Verdes Estates, Woolley has practiced law in Torrance and Lomita since 1947. He is former president of the South Bay Bar Association and served in the recent statewide election campaign as co-chairman of Lawyers for Reagan in the Southwest area.

Woolley said he was entering the Assembly race to meet the need for strong representation from the 46th during a time of "unprecedented problems of growth and urbanization."

ROSS, A Manhattan Beach attorney-realtor, confirmed his entry in the race yesterday, and said the state would be watching the outcome of the election. He is president and one of the founders of Organization of United California Homeowners (OUCH), a group formed to oppose spiraling property taxes.

Republicans and Democrats will be listed on the same ballot April 11. If no candidate wins a majority of all votes, a runoff election will be held May 9 between the top candidate in each party.

New Hearing Ordered for Youth, Companion Freed

An 18-year-old Torrance youth charged with attempted robbery has been held to answer the charge in Superior Court and charges against a second 18-year-old have been dropped.

Seaman Gunner's Mate Patrick J. Sullivan, USCG, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Sullivan of 110 Barbara St., Redondo Beach, has completed the Gunner's Mate School at the Coast Guard Training Center in Groton, Conn.

of 21005 Donora St., has been ordered to appear in Department A of the Southwest Superior Court at 9 a.m. March 21. He was arraigned yesterday in South Bay Municipal Court.

He and a companion, Mark Owen McManus, of 3510 W. 228th St., were arrested last Feb. 27 in connection with an attempted purse snatch in the West Torrance area. Charges against McManus were dismissed by Judge Otto B. Willett.

Siacotos is free on $550 bail.
